The universities of Hanover, Braunschweig, Göttingen, Lüneburg, Oldenburg and Osnabrück invite you to the

4th Workshop for Young Scientists on “Applied Economics” in Hanover, Lower Saxony.

The workshop addresses young researchers from research institutions in Lower Saxony, working in the field of applied economic. Graduate students, postdocs and junior professors have the opportunity to discuss the results of their work in detail and to build networks.

Apart from discussing current research, the workshop includes a methods session as well as a keynote by Joachim Wuermeling, Member of the Executive Board of the Bundesbank.

You can submit Discussion Papers or Extended Abstracts in English language from all fields of applied economics and economic geography until 14 March 2020. Please send them to: conference@wipol.uni-hannover.de. Decisions on accepted abstracts will be announced in early April 2020.

The workshop will be held in English. Each presentation will be accompanied by a co-presentation, so that the participants are expected to be willing to take on a co-presentation.

For speakers, the travel and accommodation costs are covered. All those interested are cordially invited to attend the workshop even without a presentation. The participation is free of charge.
